

Teachers:
sign up today

A chance to try out mental health education programmes
& £1000 for your school

EBPU Evidence Based Practice Unit
Anna Freud National Centre for Children and Families
Department for Education

The Anna Freud National Centre for Children and Families is looking for mainstream secondary schools to take part in their Education for Wellbeing programme to implement and evaluate a range of mental health interventions for pupils in year 9.

Commissioned by the Department for Education, this cutting-edge research study is the largest of its kind in England. You may have seen the programme recently in newspapers and on TV, such as on Channel 4 News and in The Guardian.

Potential benefits for participating schools include the chance to receive:

- Free mental health and wellbeing training for selected school staff
- £1,000 remuneration in recognition of administrative commitments
- A short, personalised report outlining the mental health and wellbeing of pupils in your school.

To find out more, including how to apply visit:

<https://www.annafreud.org/education-for-wellbeing/>

With only 13 places left, eligible schools will be selected on a first-come first-served basis, so apply now! Applications will be open till 5th July 2019.