

FREE Environmental Training: Our World, Our Action

Programme Details

The DfE are keen to see HAF providers and schools deliver Environmental sustainability activities to young people. Edsential have come up with a fun, engaging, environmental and sustainable programme of activities for young people to engage in over the summer that providers can deliver as part of their HAF programme, this also links to the new DfE environmental curriculum within schools.

We are inviting HAF providers and schools to two free training sessions which will model these activities and cover everything from making recycled furniture from plastic bottles, making planters from free trees and seeds that will be provided, recycling clothing for others and much more. As part of the training, you will also have the opportunity to go on a free farm visit with the children in the summer holidays, introducing them to farm to fork activities.

Not only this, Edsential have also been funded by Halton Borough Council, HAF and Arconic Foundation to support you in the delivery over the summer holidays - so book your space on to find out more
